Cooperation with Partner Countries
under the Erasmus+ Programme

26 - 27 November 2015
Bratislava, Slovakia

Compendium

Introduction

This publication is a collection of contact details and brief descriptions of project ideas presented by participants of the Central European Joint Infoday on Centralised Actions, Cooperation with Partner countries under the Erasmus+ Programme that takes place on 26 - 27 November 2015 in Bratislava, Slovakia.

What is the Central European Joint Infoday?

The Central European Joint Infoday is a joint event organised by the Slovak, Austrian and Hungarian Erasmus+ National Agencies. It is a follow-up activity to yearlong cooperation among the former Erasmus Mundus National Structures in these countries under the former Erasmus Mundus programme. The main focus of the infoday is centralised actions of the Erasmus+ programme where the cooperation between higher education institutions from programme countries and partner countries is strongly supported, i.e. Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degrees, Capacity Building in Higher Education, Jean Monnet. Knowledge Alliances are also included as a centralised action in the higher education sector.

What are the aims of the event?

The main aim of the Central European Joint Infoday is to increase the visibility of the Erasmus+ programme and its international dimension as supported by the centralised actions. The event has been promoted to higher education institutions in the three organising countries of Slovakia, Austria and Hungary, neighbouring countries of the Czech Republic and Poland, as well as Croatia. Partner countries of Israel, Kazakhstan, Palestine and Serbia have accepted the invitation to actively participate, too. The international setting of the infoday enhances its networking potential. That's why participants do not only learn how to submit a successful proposal under the 2016 call for proposals, but they also have the opportunity to meet other project coordinators and find new project partners.

Who are the participants?

Participants of the seminar are representatives of academia coming from 10 different countries: Austria, Croatia, the Czech Republic, Hungary, Israel, Kazakhstan, Palestine, Poland, Serbia and Slovakia. Representatives of the EACEA Executive Agency in Brussels are also present and contribute to the event with several presentations.

Please, feel free to use this compendium as a supporting tool for making the most of the networking opportunities during and after the seminar.

Project description
Development and advancement of applied methodology for assessing and matching the competences developed at three universities in Ukraine and those required by the labour market. Most of the basic concept of this project is transferred from the Tempus project CUP. The main aim of COMPETE is to allow Ukrainian Universities to develop their curricula and syllabi on up to date procedures and processes, akin to EU universities according to the Bologna principle. This enables them to participate in student exchange programs and to provide a means for adapting university curricula to the needs of the labour market in order to boost regional economic development and to enhance the employability of their graduates. Summary of Work Packages: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Preparation Phase</li> <li>• Foundation and training of COC</li> <li>• Pilot studies</li> <li>• Competence Catalogues (CC) and Competence Matrices (CM)</li> <li>• Information system</li> <li>• Dissemination</li> <li>• Sustainability measures</li> <li>• Quality Control</li> <li>• Project Management</li> </ul>
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?
The consortium for the project is already set up, but we would like to include an additional reliable EU partner, who can demonstrate a working system of defining curricula and syllabi based on learning outcomes or competences, preferably with an IT based solution, that is working on an university level (as opposed to a solution working only for a degree program). Experience in working with Ukrainian partners / in the Ukrainian HE System would be an additional asset.

Project description
IRPA is interested in Erasmus Mundus JMD and in Jean Monnet projects. As a teachers' training college for Islamic education in public schools IRPA combines in its curriculum subjects from the fields of Islamic theology and social sciences. IRPA's goal for the next years is to develop, accredit and start an EMJMD with its partner universities in Erasmus+ Programme and Partner countries. Preliminary talks have already been held with our existing partner institutions to define the subject and curriculum of the Joint Master Degree in order to promote further internationalisation, excellence and innovation of our institutions. We intend to integrate theology, education and sociology in the Joint Master Programme, thus providing for an interdisciplinary curriculum and qualitative studies for the students. To this effect, the Central European Joint Info Day constitutes a salient possibility to solidify our practical knowledge and to advance our preparations for the Joint Master Degree. Due to our existent cooperation with education institutions outside of the EU we are also interested in Jean Monnet Activities.
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?
IRPA is seeking to expand its cooperation with Higher Education institutions in the field of Islamic theology, religious education and sociology. We are looking for new partners in both Programme and Partner countries in the above-mentioned fields. We welcome the opportunity to become acquainted with the priorities of the invited Partner Countries and are confident that new possibilities of cooperation will arise. We are interested in establishing contacts with Erasmus Coordinators of Islamic Theological Faculties from Palestine, Kazakhstan and Serbia.

Project description
Given the increased impact of EU law on almost all aspects of life and an increasing number of EU legal provisions referring to “ethics” and / or “morality”, there is a need for deepening both teaching and research on European integration and ethics. Therefore, this project, will promote both excellence of teaching (comprehensive concept of courses on European integration and ethics), and conducting (additional) research in a new area of EU integration, where both areas (i.e. teaching and research) will mutually benefit from each other. This project develops in-depth teaching on and raising awareness for EU integration and ethics for future professionals, an offer missing so far. Beyond just raising awareness and fostering critical thinking, this project aims at enhancing students’ employability, by also including very practical topics (such as triple bottom line, non-financial reporting etc.). Upon successful participation, students will be awarded a certificate. Links to partners (Rotterdam, Sheffield etc.) and an international advisory board will both contribute to the quality of the project and dissemination of results. For both teaching and dissemination, new (teaching) technologies already tested at our institution (Adobe Connect, etc.) will be employed. This project is embedded into MCI’s mission (including UN Global Compact, Prime Initiative, etc.), coordinated with courses of colleagues and aims at further stimulation of the topic, both within MCI and beyond.
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?

Project description
Media in Action: The project aims to address disadvantage and disillusionment amongst young people in education by providing them with a platform from which to present their stories and ideas along with the necessary skills and knowledge to create and understand media content. Learning through media towards media literacy meaning design, production, and storytelling is more than dealing with the content. It scaffolds personal development and involvement. Therefore many key competencies for life-long learning play a role at various levels, such as content design, media techniques, articulation and performance etc. This gains-up new educational role and educational practice to support and facilitate this media-design process and the underpinning learning models.

Project description
The VALOL Joint Project has the objective to foster the internationalisation of universities and the establishment of new pedagogical approaches by creating a framework for the validation of learning and its application by using e-portfolio as integrated and individualised concept of learning. This includes the introduction of various "Bologna"-related elements, such as the implementation of learning outcomes, in order to improve the mobility of students, but also enhance employability. VALOL therefore promotes, parallel to formal validation, a specific validation system for prior (informal/non-formal) learning by using e-portfolios towards an integrated and individualised pedagogical approach to learning. The overall aim is to make visible and value the full range of an individual's qualifications and competences, irrespective of where these have been acquired (i.e. be it in a formal, non-formal or informal setting).

Project description
The capacity building projects aims at building capacity in the field of international dispute resolution on two levels: student's level (expert lectures, workshops, summer schools and moot courts) and practitioner's level (lawyers and judges; workshops and conferences). The idea for this project evolved from the curriculum development of a postgraduate Master of Laws degree in International Dispute Resolution that was devised together with Dr. Christian Konrad, founding partner of the international arbitration law firm Konrad &amp; Partners. The particularity of the LL.M. program is that international experts are invited to serve as guest lecturers and the know-how of the various jurisdictions is therefore streamlined in one educational program at Danube University Krems. This informal network with the most qualified academics and practitioners of the field lead to the idea to institutionalize and disseminate this concept throughout the CEE region and specifically to build up capacity in the EU's partner countries (Georgia and Moldova).
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?

EMJMD: The joint master's in Regenerative Medicine is a high-level integrated international study programme of 120 ECTS credits (2 year full time). The consortium currently consists of Danube University Krems – the coordinating institution, Semmelweis University Budapest, the University of Turin, and the Weizmann Institute of Technology, Rehovot/Israel. The target audience is multi-fold: new and experienced researchers in the adult stem cell therapy field, students (graduate and post-doctoral) and physicians. Graduates with degrees in biological sciences or medicine will gain an in-depth understanding of the cellular and molecular aspects of regenerative medicine as well as an introduction to the interdisciplinary fields of biomaterials and tissue engineering. Similarly, students with a physical sciences background will have the opportunity to broaden their experiences and acquire new skills in the biological sciences. CB in HE: The VALOL Joint Project has the objective to foster the internationalisation of universities and the establishment of new pedagogical approaches by creating a framework for the validation of learning and its application by using e-portfolio as integrated and individualised concept of learning. The Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE) puts a big effort on joining Erasmus Mundus co-operations designing various types of joint educational co-operation. The "Mundus Office" (joint degree office at ELTE IRO) from 2013 January. This year the "office" already deals with 3 Erasmus Mundus co-operations already plans the aim of the office is to support ELTE faculty and administrative staff with "mundus consultation".
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?
Above the 3 EM projects the central mundus "office" aims to foster several other EMA2 co-operations (knowing the fact that in the "western European countries") HEI's with similar "weight" as ELTE are co-operating in 15-19(!) (and sometimes even more) EMA2 projects. The aim of the "mundus office" is do develop a pragmatic (work) methodology which allows to organize EMA2 projects with more participants.

Project description
The aim of the planned Capacity Building in HE project is to improve the level of students` skills for employability and entrepreneurship. These necessary skills are to be defined with the help of industrial Partners, potential employers of students. Best practices of HEIs are to be collected in the following fields: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. What kind of new teaching and learning methods can be introduced in formal education to enhance the creativity and employability of students?</li> <li>2. What kind of services or informal learning opportunities can be offered to students? How can HEIs enhance the employability level and help the career development of their graduates?</li> <li>3. What are the most effective ways of cooperation between industry and universities? How can HEIs attract employers to take part in the educational process? What is an „entrepreneurial university“?</li> </ol> Based on the definition of the desired skills and best practices of HEIs an international pilot training course for students is to be set up and conducted in cooperation with Partners. Also a Handbook of case studies and recommendations for HEIs is to be published and disseminated. The expected results of the project are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• sustainable and efficient cooperation of participating HEIs and enterprises</li> <li>• improve the level of entrepreneurial competences and skills of students and staff</li> <li>• modernization of curricula by developing new and innovative courses</li> <li>• increasing quality and relevance of educational services in HEIs</li> <li>• internationalization of HEIs</li> <li>• jointly developing solutions for challenging issues by HEIs and industry</li> </ul>
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?
All Partners – either HEIs or enterprises - are welcome from Programme and Partner countries, who are interested in the effective and profitable cooperation of educational institutions and industry. University of Pécs would be pleased to take the role of the Coordinator or Partner in a consortium. Partnership is to be established for other calls of Erasmus + and also for common applications for International Visegrad Fund, Danube Transnational Programme, Interreg Central Europe, Cooperation Programme Interreg V-A Hungary-Croatia and H2020. The educational programmes of Faculty of Engineering and IT of University of Pécs cover technical, artistic and information technology related fields in the following branches: architecture, architectural design, civil engineering, environmental engineering, building services engineering, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering and information technology. Main research fields are: Energy design, Efficiency of resources, Building energetics and building ecology, Sustainable cities, Smart City Technologies, Heritage protection, Computer algebraic and dynamic geometrical systems in higher education, Structural diagnostics and analysis, Solidarity architecture, Virtual measuring systems and machine perception, Non-destructive measurement methods.

Project description
One aspect of the programme is to enhance the profile and image of European higher education worldwide. In this presentation, I would like to introduce the successive MEMooc project of the University of Miskolc (Miskolci Egyetem), Hungary that can help “the promotion of the European Union as a centre of excellence in learning around the world”. MEMooc stands for Miskolci Egyetem Massive Open Online Courses (www.memooc.hu) and offers 52 courses – both in English and in Hungarian - connected to the Information Engineering programme at BSc level. The courses were developed at the EDX platform within a cooperation of multiple higher education institutions of Hungary under the leadership of the University of Miskolc and can be divided into two main categories: 12 of the courses belong to the group of full-time basic courses, while 40 of them are supplementary practical courses. Full-time basic courses are those that provide fundamental theoretical and practical knowledge an Information Engineer should have at BSc level. These courses were developed on the basis of the full-time Information Engineering BSc programme accredited in Hungary and include: Information and Communications Technologies, Systematic Approach to IT Systems, Database Systems and Applications, Basics of Programming Languages, Object-Oriented Programming, Application Development and Administration, Computer Network Design, Server Administration, Web Programming, Development of Multimedia Content and Mobile Programming. The group of supplementary courses covers a wide range of optional practice-oriented courses that supplement fundamental courses with practical problems and their solutions. These courses are also good for orienting students towards some specialized areas of Information Engineering. At present this group involves, among others, some courses related to Java programming and Web technologies; operating system and database system administration; computer networks and security; data structures and algorithms; numeric methods, optimization and mathematics for informatics; computer graphics; logistics; robotics; artificial intelligence; digital image and speech processing; computer aided production planning and control. The MEMooc project started in Spring 2015 and the official site was launched in November 2015 after the completion of some performance tests. It is on the fly now and we can present a report on the achievements of more than 200 students. The success of the MEMooc project encourages the University of Miskolc to move on in this direction. We would like to extend the offered courses to MSc level on the basis of our Information Engineering MSc programme. We search for cooperation partners and we are also interested in being involved in an Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degrees Project.

Project description
Central European University (CEU) cultivates strategic partnerships with universities worldwide. As part of this initiative, CEU is seeking new partners and inviting the existing ones to join its Global Teaching Fellowship Program (GTFP). Through the GTFP, advanced doctoral students and recent doctoral graduates from CEU teach at partner institutions under the framework of teaching fellowships. They bring with them not only strong academic credentials but also excellent academic practices and a diversity of perspectives. GTFP partnerships always aim at supporting the missions of Partner Universities and their efforts towards internationalization, especially where such efforts involve diversification of curricula and increasing numbers of courses taught in English. In addition to fulfilling their academic responsibilities, the Fellows are encouraged to participate in other activities involving the local community in ways specified by the Partner's mission and its civic engagement.
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?
Global Teaching Fellowship Partner Universities typically have undergraduate programs (taught in English) in social sciences, humanities, law, public policy, and management. They have capabilities for hosting junior lecturers, and/or teaching + research postdoctoral fellowship schemes in the disciplines mentioned above, which can be offered to CEU doctoral candidates or recent doctoral graduates. Universities can be also partners, if they don't offer English taught bachelor programs yet, but would like to do so. In this case the teaching Fellows, with the support of CEU Center for Teaching and Learning can develop their own courses.

The project will examine the consequences of diversity in complex socio-political context on institutions of higher education, aiming to illuminate how such features influence teaching and learning practices. It is designed to learn how the academic staff's educational beliefs and values concerning diversity influence their teaching practices in higher education institutions. Based on the mapping phase the project seeks to develop institutional policies and training designed to promote best practices allowing academic staff to engage constructively with diversity at higher education institutions in complex societies. The project will also examine students' attitudes towards diversity in learning at higher education institutions.

The official educational system, acting on the basis of the law, often uses bureaucratic procedures that can feel threatening and hostile to families who lack the appropriate tools for coping. Because each child has a right to education, an absurd situation is created in which fulfilling that right becomes a threatening obligation. The Shaveh Center at Oranim College is intended to serve as a mediator in such situations. The staff of the centre, including lecturers from Oranim College who are experts in the relevant fields of social science and knowledgeable about different aspects of educational administration, will instruct students. They will train the students to serve as mediators between parents from excluded groups and the relevant municipal parties, and to give the parents explanations that will make the process easier. Students will gain understanding of the formal processes and the challenges that these processes pose for people from different cultures. With the guidance of advisors, students will develop tools that translate, simplify, and clarify the processes, and explain why they are necessary and what they can be expected to accomplish. In so doing, multiculturalism and social responsibility will be strengthened as key aspects of teacher training in higher education. The proposed project is for advancing the academic training of senior position holders in education, who are graduate students at Oranim in the programs of Guidance and Counselling and Inclusive Education. Oranim's fundamental approach is that training educators should take place within its social and communal context. As part of this approach, this project aims to train educators who are intelligent, assertive, and socially responsible. This project will be offered to students as a practical, project-based program in the context of their studies. Outside funding will enable the project to be run without depending on funding from partial parties. This project will have particular importance for: placement in special education, disciplinary action in schools, truancy prevention, and other related areas. We propose that the project take place in the municipalities that adopt it, in cooperation with the departments of education in those municipalities.
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?
We are looking for parallel projects taking place in other countries, in order to learn from the experience of others and to conduct comparative research that will enrich knowledge in this area. Even though we are particularly interested in projects in education, we can learn from and collaborate with other projects that are focused on other aspects of community and welfare.

Project description
Mobility of students and staff is increasingly important for internationalization of Kazakh HEIs and is a part of national strategy of higher education development. With the implementation of E+ Key Action 1 (Credit Mobility), national system of academic mobility and degree mobility the number of incoming and outgoing students and staff has increased by many times. Universities are undertaking measures to provide all necessary support for the students. However, these measures are not systemic, not based on a holistic approach. As a result, the hosting universities, their departments of international relations and other departments concerned are not fully ready to provide necessary support to coming students and in many cases universities are acting on their own. Objective: Enhancing internationalization of Kazakh universities through developing capacities of international departments. Specific objective: Developing strategy and tools for strengthening internationalization capacities of Kazakh universities.
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?
The project proposal can be a multi-country one, Kazakh university can be a Coordinator. We are looking for partners who can propose the project methodology and share their knowledge and skills in the related field.

Project description
Training of specialists for agricultural sector is one of the key priorities of higher education strategy in Kazakhstan. At present there is a need to enhance access to innovative knowledge and competences for the specialists who are already in the sector, thus improving cooperation and reciprocal relations between agrarian HEIs, research institutions and companies active in the agrarian sector in the knowledge triangle. New knowledge should be a source for innovation, and market needs for innovation should pave the way to research. Innovations are viewed as new methods, customs, or devices used to perform new tasks. There are still many problems hindering the capacity of universities to work closely with enterprises on developing and delivering innovations to the business environment as agricultural HEIs are not well prepared to meet the needs of the business, commercialize and tailor the results of their studies and research to the market requirements. Overall objective: Innovative development of human resources in the agrarian sector through diversifying access to knowledge and skills for specialists Specific objectives: Design and set up integrated Extension Centre as a key tool for adoption and diffusion of new technologies in the agricultural sector, governing the utilization of innovations and developing new policies for managing innovation activities.
Looking for a Partner Institution / Coordinator?
Universities and non-academic partners, who can deliver the skills and competences, transfer of technologies needed. Kazakh universities can be an applicant (Coordinator), thus taking over the tasks for dealing with technical aspects of preparing and submitting the application.

Project description
In the interests of Polish social policy issues occupy an essential place of work and social security, and in particular, social insurance and social assistance. These areas have traditionally been mainly associated with cash benefits. Since all or many of them began to be classified as a passive instrument and associated mainly with the fish, not with the fishing rod, note observers and analysts began to focus on social services. Additional impetus given to this discussion the controversy over the original draft of the services directive, which should boost services market in the European Union. The demand for the creation of tools for measuring the effectiveness of internal and external (including socio-economic) effects of public institutions appeared among both local and national authorities, and among the NGOs themselves, who want to show stakeholders the scope of the positive impact of their activities and thereby justify the need transferring funds for their activities.

Jean Monnet Chair - Migration Migration has become a big and constantly growing phenomenon in the last years. We have to stress here that it is necessary to focus interdisciplinary on such a complex term as migration to be able to comprehend it. In the last years research dominated which were limited to a small number of disciplines such as anthropology, sociology, social geography, economics or law, later they were joined by disciplines such as political science and history. Second, research was carried out in a considerable isolation in the last years, or complex interdisciplinary research was rare, not speaking about interdisciplinary research projects or study programmes. We expect at least 6 subjects to be innovated (migration and migration policy; current issues of the European Union development; security in international relations; law of the European Union; public opinion in the EU) and the principal subject of migration and migration policy to be connected with the scientific and research practice. From the point of view of the basic indicators of success of the submitted project in the context of the set goals, we reckon on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• learning activities (formal and non-formal): students will have necessary skills and knowledge to succeed in specific employment or they will be able to transfer their skills and knowledge to other university degrees or programmes which are more specialised in the field of migration and migration policies;</li> <li>• teaching activities: improving instruction, standards of academic excellence. The main instructions are available in multiple and innovative channels of delivery;</li> <li>• external partners : building and maintaining partnerships supporting formal / non-formal learning and respond to the community needs, including future ongoing cooperation after the end of the project;</li> <li>• resources: the strengthening of the organisational capacity of the working team, including the allocation of resources (people, facilities, equipment).</li> </ul>
